

6 Frenchmen Study Ammo Plant Here

Shell loading operations at Joliet Arsenal are being studied by a group of six Frenchmen, accompanied by two interpreters.

The men are associated with the munitions business in France. They registered at Hotel Louis Joliet Sunday night, and will remain in Joliet a week before continuing on to the Cornhusker Ammunition Plant at Parsons, Kan.

INCLUDED IN the group are Messieurs Robert Marichal, Lucien Rohmer, Robert Garet, Noel Beauregard, Gaston Mousseau, and Marcel Rey. The interpreters are Claude Namy and Daniel Crohem.

In the United States as part of the Foreign Aid Commission program, the visitors from France arrived in this country Aug. 31, after flying from Paris. Before coming to Joliet they were at LaPorte, Ind., at the Kingsbury Ordnance Plant.

THEY WILL be at the Ordnance Ammunition Center of Joliet Arsenal today and during the week will particularly study shell loading phases of the ammunition program. Their tour of the plant will encompass a full day's activity each day, starting at 8:30 a.m. and ending at 4:30 p.m.
